Vocabulary Constabulary

Are you a good detective? The Vocabulary Constabulary needs your help.

You can often detect the meaning of a word or phrase by reading it in context, that is, by reading the other words around it in a piece of text. Find the page, article or paragraph in TPP and then detect the word or phrase that solves the clue to its meaning. The number of letters and the starting letter of the solution are in brackets after each clue.

In My Shoes (Page 4)

When Ciaran McHugh visited Cape Town in South Africa, he was struck by the fact that so many children were out playing sports in bear feet. He taught about the many pears of runners back in his own attic in Sligo, all in good condition – it was just that his children had grown out of them.

So, Ciaran set up 'In My Shoes' and after campaigning locally over 12,000 pairs of runners and football boots were shipped to South Africa – shoes that would otherwise have just been binned! Then an appeal was sent out to national schools all over Ireland and there was a huge response. At a big warehouse outside Sligo, unpaid volunteers sorted and packed the shoes. Up to 25,000 pairs will now be sent, many with little letters attached from their owners to the children who will get them in Africa.

In My Shoes will be in touch with sports clubs and schools in September – so if you have any shoes you have outgrown, still in fairly good condition, just put them aside for a new life in South Africa!

If you were to look for a birthday card for Mairín Hughes, with her age on it, you might struggle to find one. Yes, you see cards with 50, 60, 70 – even 90 on them, but have you ever spotted one with 109 in the top corner? I bet not, but that is the incredible age Belfast-born Mairín celebrated last month.

Mairín, who now lives in Maryfield Nursing Home in Chapelizod, Dublin, arrived down to a group of beaming friends, staff and family on the morning of May 22, all gathered around a cake ready to sing 'Happy Birthday' amid a flurry of coloured balloons.

Mairín was presented with yet another medal – everyone who lives beyond 100 years gets presented with a medal on each of their birthdays thereafter – before reading out a message that came with her ninth medal. It said: 'You have lived through remarkable times in the history of Ireland and the world. You have witnessed remarkable changes, unimaginable at the time of your birth in 1914.'

Orla Quigg, director of nursing at Maryfield, praised Mairín, saying how a smart a woman she is.

'Mairín is a super lady. She really is inspirational to all of us here. She's lived on the grounds of Maryfield for over 30 years. She lived in apartments at the front and then she moved into the nursing home when it was rebuilt.

She plays Scrabble every day, she does a crossword every day, she does everything you're supposed to do to keep well.'

After songs were sung ('Oró Sé do Bheatha Bhaile' being her favourite) and best wishes were shared, Mairín sat back and took it all in, saying, with a smile on her face: 'Sin a bhfuil!'

Not-So-Great Garbage Patch (Page 6)

The Great Pacific Garbage Patch is a huge collectshun of plastics floating in the North Pacific Ocean. The plastics have drifted their and become trapped by the ocean currents. This is harmful to sea creetures that try to eat the plastic. In turn it is also harmful to humans who eat fish, other ocean animals, and sea salt – all of these hold tiny microplastics containing kemicals that we then swallow.

For a time, sceintists thought that only open-ocean creatures were afected by the plastics in the Great Pacific Garbage Patch. In 2011, however, some of these plastics were loosened during a sunami and debris made its way to the beaches. When this debris was studied by scientists, they discovered that coastal creatures like crabs and worms also lived on these plastics.

In 2018 and 2019, scientists decided to check further. Through a group called Ocean Cleanup, they colected plastic objects from the Great Pacific Garbage Patch. They gathered bottels, ropes, buckets and various household items. Scientists found that 70 per cent of the organisms living on that plastic debris were types usually found near the coasts. They are now living near open-ocean species, competing for the same food sources. Sometimes they even eat each other. This fact could have unknown effects on the future of our ocean ecosystems!

The Carrick-a-Rede rope bridge is suspended 30 metres above sea level, _____ (3) two cliffs at the coast of Ballintoy, Co. Antrim. It attracts thousands of tourists every year, who cross the bridge to get the spectacular _____ (4) of the North Coast. Along with the _____ (5) Causeway, it forms part of a well-known coastal route.

Sadly, vandals carried out a senseless, and potentially very dangerous, act on the bridge and attempted to cut through the _____ (6) holding it up. Hundreds of visitors were _____ (7) away on the day the damage was discovered, as inspections needed to be carried out.

The National Trust decided to _____ (8) it until they were sure it was able to take the usual amount of human traffic it was used to.

In a tweet, the Trust, which operates the site, described the attack as mindless and said it could have had very _____ (9) consequences.

Police in Northern Ireland who examined the bridge said a hand rope and some supporting ropes had been cut and they were _____ (10) it as an act of criminal damage.

Thankfully, the damage was not too serious, meaning the bridge was only closed for two days after tests were carried out to make sure it was fit for use.

Daughter-in-law Colleen noticed the ring when picking _____ (3) from a patch in Mary's back _____ (4).

It seems as if Mary lost the ring there in 2004, and that it became buried under the _____ (5). And it just so happened that a carrot grew through the _____ (6), meaning it made a very unlikely return.

Colleen says she was about to feed the carrot to her dog before noticing something strange.

'I feel _____ (7) and happy inside,' said Mary afterwards. 'It grew into the carrot. I still can't _____ (8) it out!'

Mary never told her _____ (9) Norman, who died in 2012, that she had lost her engagement ring. She simply replaced it with another ring and Norman never noticed!

After the find, Mary gathered her family together to cut the carrot away and put the ring back on her finger!

'We were _____ (10) and laughing. It fit. After that many years, it fit!'

Ireland's _____ (1) summer for many years, means there has been a _____ (2) in our ladybird population. Warm and humid weather has led to an explosion in the number of insects in the Irish _____ (3). This means that ladybirds have had plenty of smaller bugs to _____ (4) on.

The return of the _____ (5) has been especially noticeable in counties around the south-east, which experienced temperatures as high as thirty _____ (6) in July. The _____ (7) allowed tiny plant lice called aphids to reproduce in huge numbers. Ladybirds, or Coccinellidae, are small _____ (8) that feed on aphids and prevent plants and _____ (9) from being gobbled up completely. As a _____ (10), they are often called "Nature's Pesticide".

Ladybirds don't like _____ (11) weather. In fact, when temperatures fall _____ (12) twelve degrees, they will not fly. When they do they take flight, their _____ (13) beat at an incredible eighty-five times per second! Black spots on their wings help them survive by making predators think they taste bad.

The ladybird boom comes after a decade of decline. In 2011, a _____ (14) carried out across Britain and Ireland showed a 20% drop in the native population. This was probably because our climate got wetter and colder. Now there's another good reason to _____

Drama Time

Each month, we invite you and your class to base your drama lesson on a theme from The Primary Planet.

This month, we are turning our attention to the news section, both national and world news, as a starting point. We challenge you to create a short piece of drama, involving an array of characters, to demonstrate one of the news stories covered. To help you, should you need it, we have provided some ideas below.

Drama Idea 1: Imagine that you are woken to the sight of a grizzly bear in your garden. What would he be doing / eating in your garden? What do you do? Who do you call?

Drama Idea 2: An interview for the job as a seabird deterrent in Blackpool has come up. Get a partner, where one of you plays the role of the interviewer, the other the role of the candidate. What sort of questions / answers would be necessary to ensure suitability for this position?

Drama Idea 3: Imagine that you and a group of your friends are the next ones to explore the deepest part of the ocean. How do you get down there? What do you see? What is the purpose of your expedition?

Drama Idea 4: What if, while you were visiting Trolltunga, your friends dared you to crawl all the way to the edge? Could you do it? What would you be thinking while you edged your way out? Would the view be worth overcoming the fear? Form small groups of 5 or 6 and create a short silent drama to demonstrate what it could be like.

Drama Idea 5: Pretend that you have been asked by the TPP editor to write the back page features for the next issue. Who would your rising star be and why? Prepare your 'pitch' and present it to your class.

Have Your Say

Based on articles from this month's mag, we want you to think about some of the issues that arise. Remember, when you are trying to put forward an opinion, or an argument, make sure you know your facts and figures and be clear in how you feel about a certain topic and why. Here are some questions and statements you and your class might like to consider thinking about and discussing. Some you will agree with, some you clearly won't!

Handwriting is a pointless skill to learn.

NFL players are fitter than NBA players.

Cartoons are better than books.

Zoos should be banned – animals deserve to be free to roam wild.

Bottled water is a con and has no purpose.

Parents should have unrestricted access to their child's private devices or phones.

Athletes are better role models than musicians.

Schools should be open all year around.

There should be a limit to how much money a person can make.

There is no need for borders between countries.

The Hulk would beat Iron Man, without doubt.

Mayonnaise is better than ketchup.

Did You Know?

Every issue of your Primary Planet is packed full of facts and figures. Why not record the top 4 things that you learned from this issue. When you do, make sure to create an illustration to go with each one. When you are finished, share and discuss your choices with your classmates. We have added our favourite one below. You'll see I didn't just copy it from TPP, I wrote it out in my own words. Always a great idea when doing a project.

Did You Know?

In 2022 There was a census to count Ireland's sheep and goat population. Donegal had 541,063 sheep – the most of any county in the land. Tipperary leads the way in goats with 1,004 and there were 9,243 goats in the whole country. The total population of sheep was a staggering 4.01 million. Not baaaaad at all!
